

Robert Ellis

Robert Ellis is an Executive Coach and the founder of Futurocity, and the Coaching From Essence training program for executive coaches. He has almost 30 years of experience across global companies—spanning startups, mid-stage, Fortune 500 giants, and non-profits—and guides leaders to take their impact to the next level at any stage of growth.

With proven strength in coaching Robert has coached entrepreneurs and CEOs to become better leaders, think more strategically, create high performing teams, foster future-friendly cultures, and deliver compelling presentations—including several high-profile IPO roadshows. This has earned him praise as “one of Silicon Valley’s best-kept secrets.”

Robert has coached entrepreneurs in the Nasdaq Milestone Maker program, helping late-early to mid-stage entrepreneurs grow their businesses to the next level. He teaches leadership and coaches entrepreneurs at Singularity University, and developed Level UP, the leadership curriculum for the Global Startup Program. He has also taught “Facing Challenge, Navigating Change: Leadership and ‘The Hero’s Journey,’” an 8-week course at Stanford University using Joseph Campbell’s “Hero’s Journey” as a framework to explore mindsets and skillsets for leading yourself and others on a heroic journey in business and in life.